RULES FOR CONVERSATION.

The bee has the art of extracting honey from every flower which contains it, even from some which are not a little nauseous or poisonous. It has also been said that the conversation of every individual, whatever may be the condition of his mind or circumstances, may be made a means of im provement. How happy would it be, then if man possessed the skill of the bee, and knew how to extract the good, and reject the bad or useless!

Something on this subject is, indeed, known. There are rules, by the observance of which we may derive much valuable information from the conversation of those among whom we live, even though it should relate to the most ordinary subjects and soncerns. And not only so, we may often devise means to change the conversation, devise means to change the conversation, cither directly, by gradually introducing ORGAN MANUFACTORY. other topics of discourse, or indirectly, by patient attempts to enlarge and improve and elevate the minds of our associates.

Every individual has excellences; and almost every person, however ignorant, has thought upon some one subject more than many,-perhaps most-cthers. Some excel in the knowledge of husbandry, some in gardening, some in mechanics, or manufactures, some in mathematics, and so on. In all your conversation, then, it will be well to ascertain as nearly as you can wherein the skill and excellence of an individual lies, and put him upon his favorite subject. Nor is this difficult. Every one will, of his own accord, fall to talking on his favorite topic, if you will follow, and not attempt to Sept.21, 12m] Organ Builder, Charleston S. C. leadthim.

Except in a few rare cases, every one is conversing. If, therefore, you seek to improve in the greatest possible degree from the conversation of those among whom you may be thrown, you will suffer a companion to take his own course, and 'out of the abundance of his heart,' let his 'mouth speak. By this means you may easily collect the worth and excellence of every one you meet with; and be able to put it together for your own use upon future oc-presented, are, that they encourage dissimulation. But this does not appear to me to be the fact. In suffering a person, for the space of a single conversation, to be the hero of the circle, we do not of necessity concede his superiority generally; we only help him to be useful to the company. It often happens that you are thrown among persons whom you cannot benefit by he. persons whom you cannot benefit by becoming the hero of the circle yourself, for they will not listen to you; and perhaps will not understand your terms, if they do.

If, however, there appear to be others in the company whose object, like your own is improvement, you might expose yourself to the inst charge of being cold, but the control of the following complaints.

not fully understand, or even mention something which you did not expect.

There are individuals with whom you may occasionally come in contact, from whose conversation you will hardly derive much benefit at all. Such are those who use wanton, or obscene or profane language. For, besides the almost utter hopelessness of deriving any benefit from such persons, and the pain you must inevitably suffer in hearing them, you put your own reputation at hazard. 'A man is known by the company he keeps;' take care therefore how you frequent the company of the swearer or the sensualist. Avoid, too, the known liar, for similar reasons.

If you speak in company, it is not only modest but wise to speak late; for by this means, you will be able to render your conversation more acceptable, and to weigh beforehand the importance of what you utter; and you will be less likely to violate the good old rule, 'think twice before you speak once.' Let your words be as few as will express the sense which you wish to convey, especially when strangers or men of much greater experience than yourself are present; and above all, be careful that what you say be strictly true.

Do not suffer your feelings to betray you into too great earnestness, or vehemencee; and never be overbearing. Avoid triumphing over an antagonist, even though you might reasonably do so. You gain nothing. On the contrary, you often confirm him in his erroneous opinions. At least, you prejudice him against yourself. Zimmerman, insists that we should suffer an antagonist to get the victory over us occasionally, in order to raise his respect for bimself. All finesse of this kind, however, himself. All finesse of this kind, however, as Christians, I think it better to avoid.

Reinforcing Fort Sumter.—The following extract from the letter of a Southerner in New York is worthy of attention:

"I hope your coast guard will keep a bright look out. General Soott would delight in reinforcing Fort Sumter by stratagem. "It might be done by intercepting at sea a merchant vessel or atsemer, that had been regularly cleared for Charleston. They could then throw the cargo overloand, put the troops aboard, hoist the Palmetto flag off the bar, sail in and stop at Fort Sumter with men, stores and ammunition."

Cleanse out the v tiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Saraaparilla has, and deserves much, the rebut little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla or anything else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla but often no curative properties whatever. Hence bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescuel the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intentended to cure. Scrofula or King's Evil,

Is a constitutional disease a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not detroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercuriat disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venerial infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation:" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by disposition from the

This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far 1 ss power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human famicon-umption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this contamination; and many destructive disenses of the liver, kidand many destructive diseases of the liver, kid-neys, brain, and indeed, of all the organs ariso from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking in-fection, and their health is undermined by it.

To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and in-vigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we samply in
